

Individual Reflection – Week 9

- what do I want to learn or understand better?

As the project is coming to an end I do not find it as relevant to learn programming specific for this project, but more about how to present our project in valuable way that highlights the value we have created for the customer. I would also like to learn more about which frameworks are popular on the job market so that I could develop some understanding for these.

- how can I help someone else, or the entire team, to learn something new?

I believe that I can help my team by being prepared for the questioning on Monday, as well as speak up so that all the questions do not fall on one person. I should also share some tips on presenting work from my earlier experience with presenting.

- what is my contribution towards the team's use of Scrum?

I took part in all meetings that was planned for the week. I took a greater part of responsibility during the reflection and made sure our group reflected on the relevant areas as well as I took responsibility to write two out of three themes. Regarding the KPIs I made sure to look over the results and evaluate if they should be brought up or if there were no concerns.

- what is my contribution towards the team's deliveries?

This week I contributed by writing down the customer value to different features that we present in the demo. I also wrote a greater part of the weekly reflection and took responsibility to take notes during the supervision and the lecture to ensure that our groups demo reaches the examiners expectations.
