Rasmus Otterlind Individual reflection Week 7

What do I want to learn and understand better?
I sometimes find delivering value while also having it be vertical slices very hard to do when we're creating user stories and tasks. So i want to learn more about that.

How can I help someone else, or the entire team, learn something new?
This week i learned a lot about hooks in react and i also helped group members with hooks in react.

What is my contribution towards the team's use of Scrum?
I helped with sprint planning and evaluation at the start and end of the week. I also got my own tasks done and I helped other people with their tasks.

What is my contribution towards the team's deliveries?
This week I spent a lot of time coding my tasks and helping other people with their tasks. More specifically I spent time learning about hooks and making the website update dynamically which required some additional understanding of the connection to the database and how react acts when states change.
